| The Office of the NSW Small Business Commissioner (OSBC) works to improve the business environment in NSW. One way the OSBC does this is by assisting small businesses their commercial dealings with other parties. Misunderstandings and disagreements about rights and obligations can quickly turn into expensive and time consuming legal problems that cause significant stress and financial loss. The OSBC works to help prevent and inexpensively resolve problems at the earliest possible point. The Dispute Resolution Unit can assist with:
  - Information and referrals
  - Dispute resolution services |
| Expert Determination is a dispute resolution process where a binding decision is made to resolve a dispute. It is less formal, quicker and cheaper than arbitration or going to court. The process applies the industry agreed rules, which are attached to the Code. The rules can only be amended if the parties agree. The process is conducted by someone with expertise in this type of dispute resolution. The Expert is an independent and neutral third party who will ensure that each party has a fair opportunity to put their case forward. The Expert will conduct the determination process so that it's quick, cost-effective, fair, and minimises formality as much as possible. After considering the information provided by both parties, the Expert will make a final and binding written decision to resolve the dispute that will be provided to the parties in writing. There may be exceptional cases where there is insufficient or inconclusive information available to be able to make a determination decision. |
| Our office is approved under the Code to provide Expert Determination for disputes under the Code. We can arrange a process that will give a final and binding decision for a dispute under the Code. |

What is the process?

Once an application has been received, the OSBC will notify the other party and appoint an Expert.

The Expert will contact the parties to discuss the process and Expert Determination Agreement. The OSBC will provide the parties with information about:

- the rules and procedure
- the Expert’s fees and costs of the process (excluding the venue) and payment schedule
- information required from each party and the time-frames
- guidance material to assist with preparing information to submit to the Expert Determiner

The OSBC will ask the parties to sign an Expert Determination Agreement which includes a schedule of the Expert’s fees and costs.

The OSBC will give each party a time frame of 28 days for submitting information about the dispute to the OSBC. The information should include the amount claimed (and how it has been calculated) and any supporting documents, witness statements and reports relied on.

The applicant will be required to submit information first, and once the applicant’s information has been provided, the other party (respondent) will be given a time frame to submit information in response to the applicant’s claims.

The OSBC will manage the receipt of information provided by the parties on behalf of the Expert.

After considering all of the information provided, the Expert may request extra information from either party.

The Expert will make a determination decision based on the information provided by the parties, with reference to any applicable law, regulation, code of conduct, industry standard or practice.

Who pays the cost?

The applicant is required to pay the cost in the first instance. The Expert may decide that the other party must pay the cost as part of the Determination.

This determination will depend on the particular circumstances of the dispute.
